Asian Circuit — Jakarta, Penang

In the April issue we briefly mentioned the third leg tournament at Jakarta, but we got Craig Laird's score wrong. Craig scored 6 points (not 5½) and finished 7th equal (not 9th equal). Anyway, here is the full cross table:

The IM norm at Jakarta was 8½ points, the GM norm 10. Thus Mascarinas became the zones latest International Master.

To prove this was no fluke, the Philippo repeated the norm at Penang where 10½ points were required.

There have certainly been some see-saw results with Shirazi equal last in Wellington and equal first in Penang, while Ardiansyah was first equal in the first leg at Baguio City but well down in the bottom half at Jakarta.

The following five games were played at the Jakarta event.

MICHAEL LIVINGSTON reports:

This year's tournament was held in the pleasant surroundings of the Students Association Building at Auckland University. The centralised location no doubt attracted a few more out-of-town participants and their families to the Queen City.

The University Club's patron, Dr W.A. Fairhurst, started proceedings by welcoming the 69 players and declaring the tournament open. With the rooms overlooking Albert Park and the Rudman Gardens, the scene was set for some interesting and exciting matches in a field where any one of the top five players had a chance of taking the title. The field itself was not particularly strong with only eight players rated above 2000 and sixteen above 1900 so the possibility of some upsets occurring was quite high. I don't think anyone would have guessed there would be six in the top half of the field in the first round; but it happened

ROUND ONE Monday 15th, morning

Some bad play from more experienced players brought about these upsets more than anything else. Len Whitehouse, a piece up in an endgame, allowed his opponent to queen WITH CHECK before losing his own passed pawn. Richard Lane, who finished 2nd= in the Schoolpupil championship the previous week, looked to have the advantage against Paul Beach but neither player could do very much so a draw was agreed. Bob Davies played well to hold second seed Peter Stuart to a draw, as did M.White against seventh ranked Michael Steadman. Meanwhile the two Spillers met again with Tim (Wellington) beating Paul (Auckland). Young Fenella Foster took the first of her two important scalps by defeating Bruce Marsick - the first time in 21 years that Bruce has lost in the first round of a Swiss event. The other top seeds all had quick wins with Aptekar being given a piece, Wansink obtaining two connected pawns on the seventh, Clemance using all his pieces against an uncastled king, and Goffin exchanging his queen for several pieces before encircling his opponent's king.

ROUND TWO

Monday 15th, evening

This time, all the top ranked players did win, with the exception of Tom Stonehouse who was held to a draw by the current Auckland Schoolpupil champion, Graham Walden. Aptekar was the first to finish after his opponent gave him a piece, and soon afterwards G.Miller stalemated Moratti after being two pieces up. Stuart looked to be in a lot of trouble against Arbuthnott but in the ensuing time scramble played some strong moves to hit at his opponent's weaknesses. In battles of youth Cle-mance, Watson, Mataga, Gollogly, D.John-stone and Davies all easily accounted for Sidnam, Holster, T.Spiller, F.Foster, Dunstan and Steadman respectively.

ROUND THREE

Tuesday 16th, afternoon

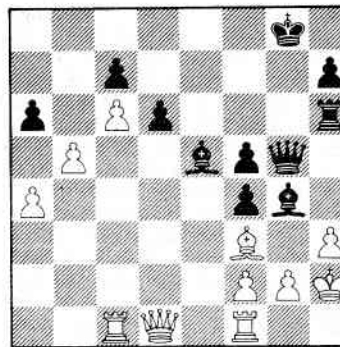

Thirteen players on 2 points at the start of this round were very quickly chopped down to just three on 3 points. Aptekar, playing Lanning, broke through decisively on the queenside, while Wansink surrounded his opponent's king and Van Dijk accounted for Lynn.

Stuart caught up with the pack when B.Watson played very weakly. Cle-mance v Gollogly and Goffin v B.Carpinter were tame draws. Mataga v P.Green lasted a little longer but in the drawn game between Stonehouse and Davies, each player attacked on opposite sides of the board and the game finally ended with Stonehouse, having promoted another queen, forced to take perpetual check to avoid being mated.

Leading scores: Aptekar, Wansink & Van Dijk 3; Stuart, Cle-mance, P.Green Goffin, P.Beach, B.Carpinter, Mataga & Gollogly 2½.

ROUND FOUR

Wednesday 17th, morning

Aptekar gained his fourth point when he won another piece (his third in four games!) against Van Dijk and Wansink joined him by beating Stuart. Cle-mance and Carpinter saved their energy for the evening round but they were overtaken by Goffin and Gollogly who both moved up to 3½ points at the expense of Mataga and Green. Pardoen beat White-house with a nice piece sacrifice and Davies walked into a perpetual check as he was outplaying B.Watson. Paul Spiller caught up with the leaders with his third successive win but Steadman received his second middlegame lesson, this time by Jim Cater.

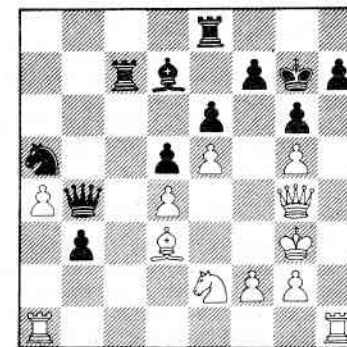

Leading scores: Aptekar & Wansink 4; Goffin & Gollogly 3½; Cle-mance, Stone-house, Van Dijk, Carpinter, P.Spiller,

ROUND FIVE

Wednesday 17th, evening

This evening round saw draws on many of the top boards, the only exceptions being when Stonehouse blundered horribly against Arbuthnott and Lynn v P.Spiller where Paul was running into time trouble after his 14th move.

Post mortem analysts had trouble finding saving moves for Aptekar in his drawn clash with Wansink. Gollogly v Goffin only took 14 moves before a draw was agreed while Van Dijk v Cater and Carpinter v Lanning went to 77 and 54 moves respectively before they reached the same conclusion. Clemance's game was starting to slip away from him when Pardoen offered him a draw.

Stuart and Green kept their chances alive with good crushes over B.Foster and Vermeer as did Beach who tried his infamous 'b3 Sicilian' and won a piece from a tiring Davies.

Leading scores: Aptekar & Wansink 4½; Goffin, Lynn, Gollogly & Arbuthnott 4; Stuart, Clemance, Green, Van Dijk, Beach, Carpinter, B.Watson, Cater, Mataga, Lanning, Pardoen & Storchenegger 3½.

ROUND SIX Thursday 18th, afternoon

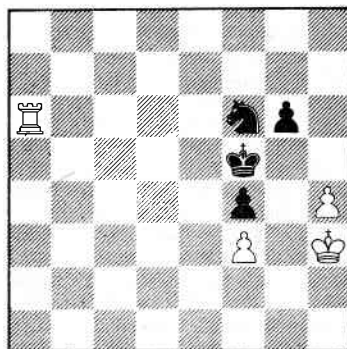

A crucial round for many players. Aptekar and Wansink were both fortunate to get even a half point from their games. Aptekar was two pawns down in an ending against Goffin while Wansink had trouble holding his pawns against Lynn.

Clemance very quickly outplayed Storchenegger and Arbuthnott blundered badly against Gollogly. Stuart, Green and Van Dijk all recorded their fourth wins at the expense of Pardoen, Cater and Lanning. The upset of the round was when Steadman outplayed Fenella Foster in the opening but then was unable to do anything for about ten moves and finally walked into a forced mate at the adjournment.

Even at this late stage there were seven unbeaten players: Clemance, Goffin, Carpinter and Walden plus the leading trio: Aptekar, Wansink & Gollogly 5; Stuart, Clemance, Green, Van Dijk, Goffin & Lynn 4½; Stonehouse, Beach, Carpinter, B.Watson, Arbuthnott, Mataga, Sidnam, Free & Walden 4.

ROUND SEVEN Friday 19th, morning

Six of the seven unbeaten players were paired together in a round where many players' records were severely tarnished. Gollogly, playing Aptekar, succumbed quickly after failing to protect his king and Goffin beat Stuart when the latter made a fatal mistake in a better position in time trouble. Clemance won the exchange and the ending against Wansink. Green kept his chances alive with a fine win over Lynn in which he gave up the exchange to get his pawns moving. Van Dijk and Mataga were overwhelmed by their opponents' (Stonehouse and Free) attacks. Of the rest, Beach and Carpinter picked up some pawns before Arbuthnott and Walden resigned. B.Watson v Sidnam produced the only draw on the top twelve boards. Fenella Foster, playing against Pardoen, allowed him to get a pawn to the seventh before walking into a one-mover. Paul Spiller marched his opponent's king up towards his own and Holster blundered by not stopping Johnstone's passed pawn when he had the chance.

Leading scores (with one round to go): Aptekar 6; Clemance, Green & Goffin 5½; Wansink, Stonehouse, Beach, Carpinter, Gollogly & Free 5.

L.Aptekar - D.A.Gollogly, King's Indian Defence: 1 c4 g6 2 d4 Bg7 3 Nc3 d6 4 e4 Nf6 5 f3

By a harmless transposition a normal grouping of the white and black pieces in the King's Indian has been reached; White has obtained one of the standard positions given in Howell & Young's "Minor Tactics of Chess", a book for beginners published seventy years ago!

5...Nc6 6 d5 Ne5

Black provokes White into disturbing his classical formation.

7 f4 Ned7

Logical would be 7...Neg4 8 h3 Nh6 9 g4 Nhg8 10 e5 dxe5 11 fxe5 Nd7 12 e6 fxe6 13 dxe6 Nc5 with interesting possibilities.

8 Nf3 0-0 9 Bd3 e6 10 0-0 exd5 11 exd5 Re8

Black should have played 11...Nc5, e.g. 12 Bc2 Bf5 13 Bxf5 gxf5 14 Nd4 Qd7 with adequate compensation for the isolated kingside pawns.

12 f5

Now White's pieces come alive and Black's vital Bg7 has to be exchanged. Black should now have tried 12...Nc5 13 fxxg6 fxxg6 14 Bc2 Nfe4 etc.

12...Ng4 13 fxxg6 hxg6

A little better was 13...fxg6, despite the weakening of e6.

14 Bg5 Bf6 15 Qd2 Bxg5 16 Nxg5 Ne3

Better was 16...Nde5. After the text White wins with a few forceful moves.

17 Qf2 Ne5 18 Qh4 Nxf1 19 Rxf1 Qxg5

A final confession of weakness. But if 19...Qd7, then 20 Qh7+ Kf8 21 Bxg6 Ke7 22 Ne6 wins; or 19...f5 20 Qh7+ Kf8 21 Qh8+ etc; or, finally, 19...Bf5 20 Bxf5 gxf5 21 Qh7+ Kf8 22 Rxf5 winning.

20 Qxx5 Nxd3 21 Nb5

An elegant finish to a flawless game by New Zealand's most consistent tournament player.

ROUND EIGHT Saturday 20th, morning

The top pairings for the last round were Aptekar v Clemanace, Goffin v Green, Wansink v Carpinter, Stonehouse v Gollogly, and Beach v Free.

The top board clash arrived at a rook and pawn ending after just 14 moves and this was quickly agreed drawn. This meant that either Goffin or Green could tie for first place; in the event the latter won to share the title, although it was Aptekar who qualified for an automatic place in the next New Zealand Championship in view of his higher tie-break score.

Wansink won a pawn but there was still a difficult road to the win until Carpinter left another pawn en pris. Gollogly played some very poor moves against Stonehouse and for much of the game had his pieces on his back rank. Beach was able to get at Free's king with two glorious bishops in the middle of the board.

Stuart and Lynn were both given the exchange and won very easily against Lanning and Pardoen, to end up (with Goffin) on 5½ points, a half point behind Wansink, Clemanace, Stonehouse and Beach.

Lev Aptekar was perhaps unfortunate not to win first place outright, but the four "easy" games he had before his lapses in rounds 5 and 6 were not enough to settle him before he started meeting the other top ranked players.

Meanwhile Peter Green played a weaker field after his early loss, but the way he disposed of some of his opponents indicated that he will have to be watched more closely in future tournaments.

The most noticeable feature of the whole tournament was, however, the maturity and skill shown by some of the students. It was expected that Wansink, Clemanace, Beach and B.Watson would all finish quite high, but the real surprises were the excellent performances by David Gollogly and 13-year old Fenella Foster. David, following up his high placing at Congress, showed good all-round skill and is rapidly becoming a top class player. As for Fenella, the skill is there and the forthcoming Olympiad will provide her with some of the necessary experience she requires.

The winners each received $160 while those who finished equal third got $32.50 each.

Grade 1 winners were D.Gollogly, B.H. P.Marsick, D.G.Johnstone, J.E.Cater, G. Sidnam & T.J.Free. Grade 2 was won by B. R.Foster with T.Spiller taking Grade 3. In the Unrated section, O.Storchenegger took first place with the second being shared by A.Pardoen and N.A.Morris.

Civic Easter to Chandler

Report: Tim Spiller

The Civic Easter Tournament has gained a reputation for attracting strong players from outside Wellington and, though the number of participants this year was somewhat disappointing, the tournament was still quite strong. Undoubtedly, the favourites were Chandler and Small but there were many others who also had their sights set on winning the title, including Kai Jensen, Peter Green, David Beach, Mark Evans and Jon Jackson, to name but a few. The format this year was slightly different, the event still being a seven round Swiss, but run in two grades instead of one. The time control was the usual 40 moves in two hours.

There were no real surprises in the first round, although Green was held to a draw by a determined Roy Shuker and Evans was rather lucky to win against Tim Spiller after being four pawns down at one stage. Round two saw the beginning of the sorting out process when Jackson went down to Chandler while D. Beach lost to Jensen when the latter sacrificed unsoundly but proved to have the better nerves. Small and Evans drew quickly when the former could not find a way to improve his somewhat better position. Green was held to his second draw, this time by Peter Hawkes.

In round three Murray Chandler and Kai Jensen opened up a half point lead by defeating B.Carpenter and Wigbout respectively. The first mentioned game was probably the most interesting of the whole tournament. Close behind was Small who beat Hawkes and had 2½ points.

Round four saw the emergence of a single leader when Chandler made short work of Jensen. Carpenter and Small agreed to a quiet draw while Wigbout crushed David Beach in only 15 moves. Evans moved up to share second place after an impressive win over Jackson. The leaders at this stage were: Chandler 4; Evans, Small, Jensen, Wigbout and Green 3; Hawkes, Carpenter and Cooper 2½.

It was left to Vernon Small, in the fifth round, to take the only ½ point from Chandler in the whole tournament.

Chandler decided to be rather adventurous by replying to Small's 1 e4 with "something different", but the experiment almost ended in defeat; it was only the discovery of an ingenious saving manoeuvre by Murray during the adjournment session that stopped Vernon taking the full point. Others to suffer in this round were Jensen at the hands of Evans and Jackson against Mike Roberts. While most had been following the battles between the leaders, Green and Hawkes had quietly caught up with them by beating Wigbout and Carpenter respectively. The leaders now were: Chandler 4½; Evans & Green 4; Small & Hawkes 3½.

By defeating Peter Green in round 6, Chandler ensured that his claim on first prize was almost a certainty. Small and Jensen agreed not to risk anything and split the point, as did most of the other leaders: Beach drew with Sarfati, who was having a fantastic tournament, Wigbout drew with Malarski, Hawkes drew with Evans (who had luck on his side after plundering a rook early in the game). Dave Cooper, who was somewhat of an unknown force in this tournament, joined the leaders at the expense of Roberts. Scores: Chandler 5½; Evans 4½; Small, Green & Hawkes 4; Jensen, Beach, Cooper, Wigbout, Malarski & Sarfati 3½.

Before round seven Small was unfortunately forced to withdraw because of a migraine attack, which left it up to Evans to see if he could stop Chandler getting a near perfect score. The game, however, turned out to be a walkover for Chandler in what was probably his easiest win of the tournament. In a very determined bid to ensure that all the prize money would stay in Wellington, Green and Hawkes sent Jensen and Wigbout respectively on their way. This was probably Hawkes' best tournament performance to date and his determination to win was quite impressive. Schoolboy Jonathan Sarfati, by defeating Cooper in the last round and thus coming in equal fourth, was the one who really showed some of his potential and it is hoped that we will see more of him in the future.

The B Grade was easily won by Mark Noble with a perfect 7 out of 7, two points clear of his pursuers. Scores:

1 M.Noble (Pen) 7 pts; 2/4 L.McLaren (Civ), R.Ferguson (Civ) & B.Rusbridge (Civ) 5; 5 D.Keith 4½; 6/8 J.Olson (Civ), P.Chin (Civ) & C.Webber (Civ) 4; 9/12 A.Drake (UH), L.Carline (UH), K.Chandler (Pen) & F.Foster (Pen) 3½; 13/15 C.Feneridis (Civ), P.Cunningham (Pen) & D.Dolejs (Ham) 3; 16/18 S.Earle (Civ), B.Newman (UH) & L.Meek (Civ) 2½; 19 T.Fernando (Civ) 1.

Many thanks must go yet again to Doug Clark for organising and running the tournament so efficiently. Unfortunately, this was probably Doug's last tournament as D.O.P. as he has decided to stand down from the position. I think I can honestly say that every player who has played under his direction regrets his decision to withdraw, but he has certainly left a high standard for future D.O.P.'s to work up to.

LOCAL NEWS

The WELLINGTON SCHOOLPUPIL CHAMPIONSHIP, played in the May holidays, was surprisingly won by 13-year old Jonathan Sarfati, a third-former at Wellington College. Current New Zealand Schoolpupil Champion Patrick Cordue (Onslow College) took second place ahead of a six-way tie for third: Fenella Foster, Mark Noble, Leonard McLaren, Chris van Oeveren, Andrew Christie and Gavin Marnier.

For the first time in its history, the JENKINS TROPHY, long an unofficial symbol of interclub supremacy in Auckland, has an official set of rules. Formerly, the holder could do as it wished and frequently did. In the first challenge for 1978 the Auckland Centre, holder since 1973 when they won the trophy from North Shore, lost to the northern team 8 : 12.

The OTAGO PROVINCIAL SCHOOLPUPILS CHAMPIONSHIP was played from the 17th to 20th May at the Otago Chess Club. The event was an eight-player round robin and was jointly won by Tony Love and Michael Freeman who scored 6½/7 and were two points clear of third place getter David Weegenaar. This was Tony's fourth successive win in this event - an Otago record. The B grade event was won by M. Bayly.

On Saturday 10th June New Plymouth Chess Club braved the four-hour drive to Hamilton in the name of interclub chess. Hamilton Chess Club, ever courteous, regaled the visitors with a hefty lunch before the business started. Thanks are due to club secretary Brian Bell-Syer for impeccable catering.

The struggle took place on 12 boards in Hillcrest High School library. Time limit was 40 moves in 2 hours. The lower boards finished quickly, but some of the higher boards lasted the whole session. Several games ran into nasty time trouble - always an indication of quality chess earlier on. The result was a narrow win for New Plymouth, 7 : 5. Hamilton has sworn bloody vengeance, and negotiations are under way for a return match in New Plymouth later in the year.

CIVIC TOUR OF AUCKLAND: David Beach reports.

In the last week of the Victoria University May vacation five enterprising students and what are vaguely described as "university types" headed north for a chess tour of Auckland. By divers means the team of Mark Evans, Tim Spiller, Peter Hawkes, Ross Bloore and David Beach reached Auckland, eventually rendezvoused, and discovered to their consternation that their rather ill-conceived accommodation plans had fallen through. The situation was, however, completely retrieved thanks to the much appreciated generosity of Mrs Metge, mother of liaison officer Nigel Metge to whom thanks are also due, who, with no visible signs of trepidation, offered us the use of her house while she left (fled?) for Wellington. With a base for our operations, we were now prepared to do battle with the Auckland clubs.

Our first encounter was with Howick-Pakuranga in which several games of fluctuating fortunes, of which the most interesting was probably the Green-Evans game, eventually resolved themselves to leave the match a draw.

Another drawn match, but again one in which the result doesn't reflect the fighting nature of the games. On top board Black successfully sacrificed a knight to break into the white position. Tim managed to scrape up a draw by perpetual check a rook down, while in time trouble Wayne Power overlooked the winning plan against Mark. Peter had the galling experience of being winning a few moves before his resignation.

Disaster. Mark overlooked a mate in one while in a winning position. Peter played some inconsequential moves in a won position and suddenly found himself lost while I could only draw an advantageous ending against Robert Smith. Thus the match ended in a 3 : 2 victory for Waitemata.

Our best result. Mark tempted weaknesses in Peter Goffin's position and then exploited them accurately. Tim played well to achieve an overwhelming position but went to sleep on the job in the ending and allowed it to peter out into a draw.

WELLINGTON QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY WEEKEND TOURNAMENT: report by Tim Spiller.

Following the recent decision by the Wellington League not to run any more tournaments from its own resources, the Civic Chess Club was pleased to take on the task of organising this year's Queen's Birthday Tournament. The response was excellent; 52 players in three grades, all from the Wellington area, took part, making it one of the biggest local tournaments of this type to be held here in recent years. With two rounds on each of the three days, the time control was 36 moves in 1½ hours.

The 18 players participating in the A grade included nearly every top player in Wellington. However, the old saying that "it's not enough just to be a good player" rang true in the first round when Peter Green, the top seed and 1978 North Island co-champion, was routed by bottom ranked Bill Ramsay. Unfortunately for Bill, he considered this fine effort was enough for one tournament and his score remained the same throughout the event. Meanwhile, Green recovered from this setback by KO-ing Beach, Dowman, Evans and Cordue in succession but even this was not enough to stop the eventual winner, Bernie Deben. When these two met in the last round, Deben, who was making a return to tournament chess, boasted a 100% record with wins over Shuker, Frankel, Feneridis, Cordue and Hawkes. Their much awaited game ended in a quiet draw, giving Deben a clear one point margin over the rest of the field. His passage through the tournament was not as easy as the scores might suggest, however; in round 4 he was a pawn down versus Cordue but the latter left a piece en pris - a tragic error for Cordue but a useful point for Deben. Of the remaining players, only Beach and Bloore ever looked like a threat but they finally settled for third equal along with Cordue. Scores: 1 B.Deben 5½/6; 2 P.R.Green 4½; 3-5 P.L.Cordue, R.Bloore & D.O.Beach 4; 6-9 M.Evans, A.Feneridis, P.D.Hawkes & M.Wigbout 3½; 10 R.Shuker 3; 11-12 J.Sarfati & R.Ferguson 2½; 13-15 Z.Frankel, I.A.Dowman & J.Nysse 2; 16-17 J.B.Kay & D.Clark 1½; 18 W.Ramsay 1.

In the B grade Peter Collins looked a certain winner but a last round loss allowed Leonard McLaren and Joe Rickit to catch him and share first prize.

A similar fate befell Jim Wong in the C Grade when a loss to Rodney Fortune in the last round allowed the latter to tie him for first place.

As a first time D.O.P. I was much relieved to see the tournament run without the slightest hitch. Many thanks are due to the Astrological Institute(!) for their generous sponsorship and to Trevor Hughes for the meals he provided throughout the three days; while his chess was lousy, his meals were superb!

PERRY v VAN DIJK REVISITED

Tom Van Dijk writes:

After Black's 36th move in Perry - Van Dijk (June issue, page 60) the following position occurred:

White, in serious time trouble, played 37 Kf1? and lost after 37...Ra2 38 a5 b3 39 Rb6 b2.

The Editor's suggestion of 37 Rg6 looks as if it may draw, but is in reality not much better, e.g. 37 Rg6 Ra2 38 Rxe7? b3 39 Rb7 b2 40 Rb4+ Ke5 (or Ke3 but not Kg5 because of h4+ and Kh2) 41 Rb5+ Kd4 and Black wins. Or 37 Rg6 Ra2 38 Rb6 Rxa4 and Black, with the extra pawn and superior king position, must win, e.g. 39 h3 g5 40 Kh2 Ke4 41 Rb5 Kd4 42 Rxf5 b3 43 Rxe5 Rb4 44 Rf5 b2 45 Rf4+ Kc5! 46 Rf1 bQ 47 Rxb1 Rxb1 and White's pawns are not far enough advanced to create real problems.

This raises the question, however, of what would have happened in the diagrammed position after 37 Rb6! when Black's task is much more difficult as he does not immediately win the a-pawn. His best chance is to move the king over to support the passed b-pawn. Thus a possible continuation is 37 Rb6! Ke3 38 h3 Kd4 39 a5 Kc5 40 Rg6 Ra2 41 Rxe7 Rxa5 42 Rc7+ Kd4 43 Rcl and Black is winning, or 37 Rb6! Ke3 38 h4 Kd4 39 a5 Kc3 40 Rb7 Ra2 and again Black wins. This analysis is not exhaustive, but I feel that in all variations the active position of the black king plus the advanced b-pawn must beat White's backward king and pawns.

● Touché - a faulty snap judgment! I had in mind 37 Rg6 Ra2 38 Rb6 Rxa4 and now 39 h4!? (instead of Tom's 39 h3) when 39...Kg4 40 Rg6+ Kxh4 41 Rxe7 b3 42 Kf2! seems to draw, but of course 39...Ke4! should win as in the variation given above by Tom.

Nevertheless, White CAN DRAW from the diagrammed position. The correct move is 37 a5! when the despised victim of the foregoing variations becomes the instrument which forces the draw - in the process laying to rest the myth that black pawns travel faster than white! Thus 37...Ra2 38 a6 b3 39 Rb6 b2 40 a7! Ke3!? 41 Rb3+ Ke2 (but not 41...Kd2?? 42 Rxb2+ winning for White) 42 h4 (and not 42 a8Q?? allowing Black to mate after 42...Ral+) 42...Ral+ 43 Kh2 bQ 44 Rxb1, drawn. Or in this 40...Ral+ 41 Kf2 Ra2!? 42 Rb4+ (42 Kf1 also draws) 42...Ke5 43 Kf3, drawn. Other moves for Black in these variations either transpose back or draw quickly.

Correspondence Chess in New Zealand

by A.L. FLETCHER

Alan concludes his survey of the correspondence chess scene in New Zealand.

PUBLICATIONS OF NZCCA

Apart from an Annual Report since its inception, the NZCCA has issued a limited number of publications in the past. From about 1940 to the early fifties a series of "Bulletins" was issued, numbering eight as far as we can discover. Issues No.1 and No.8 are not in the archives. These Bulletins were generally well produced, and consisted of articles and best games in various classes selected and usually annotated by the judges. L.A.Dingle and A.L.Fletcher were joint editors of No.1 while P.Eades was editor for numbers 2 to 6 inclusive, and D.I.Lynch controlled No. 7. The other "extra" was the 1961 brochure quoted in Part 1 of this series.

CHUCKLES AND FROWNS

Calling on the memories of forty years in the trade, one finds many incidents docketed away. Pride of place, for Chess is not productive of all that much laughter, may well be held by the most extraordinary game of correspondence chess we have yet seen. It was played many years back by two members no longer among those present. White had at least a hazy idea of formal development, though he mostly avoided attacking anything. His pieces pirouetted prettily but planlessly. It was Black's manoeuvres which put the touch of magic on the encounter. If one had not known better, it might have been suspected that Black was a Grandmaster "having White on". Black attained an apparent maximum of pointlessness with every move, though no move was actually illegal. A bishop in a landlocked see was a mere detail; this chap was after immobility from the word go, all done in the compass of three ranks. After 35 moves of this duelling (dirty looks at forty paces) it seemed a long shot that there would be a further surprise in store, but White had a last contribution to make. He checked with his queen on the back rank through the first gate that opened into the Black forest (the only check in the game) and wrote MATE in two inch block letters across the sheet. Black appended "Yes - great game." But a knight could have interposed; it was not mate at all - not as far as could be discerned through a mist of joyful tears.

The correspondence chess "note" is often used by some players. There was a story going about in one Trophy Tournament away back that on reaching home from work, a member was greeted by his wife from the front steps with the loud announcement "X has played pawn to king six and says, 'How are you going to get out of that, you bungler?'" This is one story we can vouch for! And it was not "bungler".

The general pattern in NZCCA tournaments seems to be that most opponents, after an exchange of civilities with their opening moves, do not have much to say apart from occasional comments in the conditional column. But one cannot play an opponent, perhaps for several seasons, without the possibility of mutual interests other than chess being canvassed. Some lasting friendships have undoubtedly been formed as a result of meeting by post, with social benefit where an actual meeting occurs, as it may during holiday or business trips. And, it could be remarked, with the further possibility of surprise when, on the strength of desultory correspondence with little personal detail, having vaguely envisaged a young man who is a keen vegetable gardener and has a car, the chap who has just mated you in six ("Will be at the airport at 11 o'clock") turns out to be over seventy, a grower and exhibitor of prize gerberas, and the owner-driver of an E type Jaguar!

Committee kerfuffles have occasionally been caused by such things as complaints that score sheets were received in reused envelopes well past their prime, allegations that retrospective move alteration had occurred, that a player had requested a move back, had requested a draw in a lost position, and every other irregularity one can think of. One or two vitriolic letters have blown the receiver out of the water at point blank range. This is Murphy's Law in operation: "If anything can go wrong, it will." But the vast majority of the many thousands of CC games that have been played in New Zealand proceeded without serious incident, except perhaps that the time limit was allegedly exceeded on occasion.

The time limit is the subject of nearly all enquiries. In the earlier days in the NZCCA the limit was 48 hours (two days only!), in the fifties increased to 72 hours per move. The Fourth and Fifth editions of the NZCCA Rules abolished this limit and substituted the far better arrangement of ten moves in thirty days. This gave players a degree of flexibility in managing their time which was totally lacking previously. It does not take time to send off 1 P-K4, but it is a different story when a dozen or so games in hand become more advanced. That's when the time is needed.

Another technical matter about which debate is apt to break out once each decade is the treatment of illegal moves despatched. The usual specious argument is that a version of the over-the-board touch and move rule should apply. This will not work evenly in correspondence chess. You cannot "touch" a unit that is not there. A move written at CC is a set of symbols which should be capable of one and only one translation into an actual move by the receiver on his board. If a "touch and move" idea is behind the demanded procedure, the sender of an illegal move can follow it only if the unit named exists. Thus uneven "punishment" would follow a clerical error. For instance, a player sends "R-N6". It is illegal. He meant "N-R6", legal. If he actually has a rook that could play elsewhere, he must move it, according to the specious argument. If he does not have a rook, then there is no penalty - he must substitute a legal move. Hence the unevenness. The rule now is that an illegal move must be replaced by "any legal move". Most illegal moves are recorded because the player has his position wrongly set up, or because he is an inefficient penman. The ideal is a result in a game arrived at by chess skill only.

Clerical errors are an occupational hazard in correspondence chess. Each season produces its quota of games lost by legal moves wrongly recorded, (e.g.

Q-K5, losing; he meant Q-K6); by the wrong prefix (P-QR3, fatal or merely pointless; he meant P-KR3); or by another popular recipe for disaster in which a move and offered conditional, though intended to be written in, are omitted when recording and the next move given instead. Also an ambiguity may be sent and answered, guaranteeing trouble. The players must return to the ambiguity, resolve it, and proceed, having by now lost a month or more and having done in postage money as well. There are other paths to clerical calamity which accident prone players discover for themselves. There is just no substitute for great care in recording moves for despatch. Check everything - twice; that's a good motto. Chess is hard enough without gratuitously adding to the difficulties.

The practice of offering a conditional move contains one nasty snag that has bagged a victim at least once. The offerer of a conditional move had attacked the opposing queen with a protected pawn, leaving the queen with a choice of several safe retreats. Unfortunately, he wrote in the conditional column "if Q-any, then so-and-so." It was that word "any" that did the damage. The writer clearly implied "any normal Q retreat", but implication is not sufficient; he had actually given the queen carte blanche for one move. This was understood by the receiver, who grabbed a protected rook with the threatened queen and, after correctly recording the so-and-so move, decamped to a safe spot. The victim complained to HQ that his opponent was another so-and-so, but no salve for his self-inflicted wound could be found in the Rules. He had misused the most dangerous word in chess clerical practice: the "didn't know the gun was loaded" story in another setting.

If there is one thing more than any other that causes a player to call down fire on the head of an opponent, it is most likely tardiness exhibited by the latter in writing that little word "resigns" instead of recording yet another move in a game that has been dead lost for long enough. True, no game was ever saved by lowering the flag. Equally true, when it has got to the stage at which a chimpanzee could win it, the game has gone on too long. This fault, an expensive one after hefty postage increases, is naturally more common among the inexperienced, but better players have been known to sometimes carry on past a point at which any continuation was an insult.

Comparing the over-the-board and correspondence games of any one player, how much higher is his standard in the latter? This is a common question, but it is really unanswerable. If a player makes little use of the greater time he has for consideration, his standard may be very little higher. If a player is a top man, the same may apply: he is good either way. Between these extremes it is reasonable to suppose that most players' correspondence games are of a higher standard than their over-the-board efforts. We remember a new CC player remarking, "I can't see how it is possible to lose a game at correspondence." He found out, but all the same it was not an unreasonable observation for a new chum. All players have a ceiling to their power of judgment, and if the other fellow has a higher ceiling (or perhaps a better library) you stand to lose. One CC player assured us that, compared to correspondence chess, over-the-board chess was a "game of chance." That was C.J.S.Purdy, first World Correspondence Chess Champion and an over-the-board International Master.

The biggest problem in CC, and one that is experienced by all CC authorities, is the defaulter. An "approved withdrawer" in the terminology of the NZCCA Rules is a player who cannot continue play for a reason seen to be adequate. That, if unfortunate, is one thing. It is another when a player, usually a new recruit, just stops play without even a by-your-leave. When several do this in one tournament, the contest can be ruined. This should be apparent to those involved, and the NZCCA's Rules and supporting information sheet go as far as they can in warning against this cavalier action. It is little use proposing a black ban on defaulters, because they don't want to come back anyway. Administratively, they are regarded as damned saboteurs.

On the financial side the NZCCA has managed to survive on annual subscription rates varying from 7/6 (75 cents) on its foundation to the present six dollars for full adult members, which is a little changed rate taking into account inflation. In 1971 the NZCCA benefited to the extent of $100 as a legacy from the estate of the late F.W. Warne who had been an enthusiastic member for many years. Donations are made regularly by some members, occasionally by others.

Now past its fortieth year, the New Zealand Correspondence Chess Association can fairly claim to have done its best, uneven though its performance may have been, to promote the interests and practice of a magnificent game. Many of New Zealand's top players have from time to time taken part in its tourneys, and over the years there must have been considerable technical benefit to improving young players. An aspiring but unskilled player who goes through the mill of several consecutive seasons of correspondence play, trying conscientiously, will never be the same again; he has been case-hardened. If there was ever in him any capacity for improvement he has become something at least of a chess player, as distinct from a player of chess.

During 1977 negotiations were conducted with certain Wellington members with a view to the NZCCA moving its headquarters there. The result was that from January 1978 the Secretary-Treasurer is J.W.Maxwell, the Chairman P.Mackey, and the third committee member C.J.Fisher. At the same time P.E.Bennett, also from Wellington, became the new Trophy Tournament Director in succession to D.G.Brunt. Also, in May 1978, K.D.Kinchant (Auckland) took over the Handicap Tourney from Norman French. The present year, therefore, has seen an almost complete change of working officers, ending a spell of 17 years work for the Auckland HQ and Don Brunt.

OVERSEAS NEWS

At the ALICANTE (Spain) Tournament played 1-15 March, the Soviet Union's Alexander Belyavsky scored a remarkable 13 out of 13, a scoring performance reminiscent of Fischer or Alekhine. Next were Farago (Hung.), Gipslis (USSR) & Tatai (Italy) with 7 points. The tournament was played in April.

Also in April in West Germany there was an International event at KIEL where Jan Smejkal (Czech.) and Bruno Parma (Yugo.) tied for first with 8½/11. Third equal were E.Mortensen (Den.), I.Radulov (Bul.) & I.Csom (Hung.) on 7½.

THE CLASSICAL DUTCH

Robert Bellin

Batsford's partner to THE LENINGRAD DUTCH, this book covers those lines where Black plays e7-e6. The Dutch is an aggressive weapon in the mould of the Sicilian with Black opting for an asymmetrical pawn formation.

THE SICILIAN SCHEVENINGEN

C.Pritchett

The theory and practice of this popular variation are built around 34 complete games in a somewhat different and more readable approach. Hardback. $14.95

FRENCH DEFENCE MAIN LINE WINAWER

Moles

This important variation of the French (3 N-QB3 B-N5) is examined in great detail with considerable emphasis on the strategic ideas behind it. Many variations have been reassessed as previous judgments often derived from misconceptions of Black's aims.

BENONI

William Hartston

This third edition, in figurine algebraic notation, is a complete rewrite of the earlier books, incorporating material up to the end of 1976. The material is divided into three parts - Modern Benoni (the greater part), Czech Benoni, and other Benoni systems. Softback. $7.25

SICILIAN: ...e5

Harding/Markland

This Batsford book examines three of the most controversial lines of the Sicilian Defence. The Boleslavsky (1 e4 c5 2 Nf3 Nc6 3 d4 cxd4 4 Nxd4 Nf6 5 Nc3 d6 6 Be2 e5) challenged the old static notions of "weak" squares in the centre and so led a post-war revolution in opening theory. Currently popular is the Lasker Variation (5...e5) particularly recommended by the authors. The older La Bourdonnais (4...e5) rounds out the work. Softback. $6.80

PRACTICAL CHESS ENDINGS

Paul Keres

Not encyclopaedic in scope, this book deals with the principles of the more basic endings. Hence it is less technical and more readable than most books on the endgame. Hardback. $10.10

KNIGHT ENDINGS

Averbakh & Chekhover

This is the fifth volume to appear of Averbakh's great series on the endgame. This English translation of the Russian original has been updated with the addition of 51 new examples. Altogether 267 examples of N v P(s), N+P v P's, N+P(s) v N etc. Hardback. $12.70

QUEEN & PAWN ENDINGS

Averbakh

Covers only endings involving queens and pawns. This book gives a much fuller treatment on this subject than any other work, much of it the result of comparatively recent Russian research. This applies particularly to the ending of Q + P v Q. As with KNIGHT ENDINGS, this English translation has been updated with the addition of more examples. Hardback. $9.35

ROOK ENDINGS

Levenfish & Smyslov

Examines endings with rooks and pawns - but not those with other pieces. Rooks and pawns are involved in perhaps as many as half of all endgames. This book will give the reader a deep understanding of these positions. Hardback. $14.50
