28th Waitakere Licensing Trust Chess Open

by FM Bob Smith

Having broken the 100 player barrier last year, Waitemata Chess Club was keen to do it again at the 28th Waitakere Licensing Trust Open on May 14 and 15.

As usual, we offered the best weekend prize-fund of any tournament in the country - $5000. There was plenty for everyone to compete for, from the top prize of $750 to the $150 first prize in the junior tournament – one of four separate events.

There were also three upset prizes every round for the A, B and C Tournaments.

On top of that, we were spending around $1500 on free refreshments for players and officials.

There were also Class One points in the NZCF Grand Prix available in almost every division and the A Tournament would also be FIDE-rated. Clearly we must be doing something right, as this year's entry of 134 set another record, and must be one of the biggest tournaments held in New Zealand for some years.

The field did not lack quality – nine of the top 11 players in the country – or geographical spread – players came from Ashburton and Christchurch, Gisborne, Tauranga, Whangarei, New Plymouth – you name it.

Joint top seeds were IM's Russell Dive and Anthony Ker, followed by FM Roger Nokes. Another FM, Alexei Kulashko, was seeded fourth, followed by IM Paul Garbett. Then came another two FM's, Bob Smith and Stephen Lukey. In all, the forty players in the A tournament included seven current or former New Zealand Champions and 17 players rated above 2000.

Round One
Unfortunately the tournament started 25 minutes late, simply because of the need to process late entries and unregistered players. The organisers have a few ideas on how to stop this delay next year, as they are always keen to start on time.

When play did start, it was soon apparent that there would be no easy points in the A grade. The top five seeds all accounted for their opponents without too many problems, though Forster took Garbett to a long endgame struggle. But on board six Smith conceded a draw to Roger Perry, and was perhaps fortunate to even get the half. Peter Green also let a draw slip against Nyberg, after reaching a winning ending. And it was an even worse start for Steadman, who succumbed to Daniel Baider's counterattack, and Spain, who lost on time to Philip Hair while trying to convert an advantage in a rook and pawn ending.

Matthew McNabb joined the list of major upsets by falling to Lou Rawnsley.

Attractive games in round one included Dive's nice mate against Mistry, Nokes' temporary piece sacrifice against Thornton, and the sharp win over Caleb Wright by Danish visitor Jens Hornsgaard.

Round Two

McCrone looked to be holding a rook and minor piece ending against Dive, until he gave away the d4 outpost.

Ker appeared to always have the measure of Krstev's benoni defence and Nokes made good use of his favourite type of position – a pawn down with the attack – to beat Sims. Garbett survived a messy position that Fritz gave as plus two for Hair, when the latter lost on time. Stuart converted his favourite technical rook and pawn ending against Nyberg. Smith could only draw for a second round, although he did achieve a winning position against Browne before an analysis blackout forced him to take a perpetual. Green could also only draw against Burn.

The shock of the round was Kulashko's loss to Hornsgaard. Alexei played in his usual dynamic, trappy style, shedding pawns along the way, but the Dane was able to consolidate and convert the extra material.

The other unexpected loser was Steadman again, who overlooked a cute tactic against Power.

Round Three

Dive-Lukey was a knife-edge affair, which after many adventures liquidated into a theoretically drawn knight and pawn ending. However Dive's distant passed pawn proved a winner after Lukey went wrong.

Hornsgaard appeared to have the advantage against Ker after gaining the exchange for two pawns, but he was happy with a draw. Nokes outplayed Wastney nicely from a deceptively innocuous opening. The surprise of the round was Croad's win over Garbett with black.

Croad got a very comfortable Caro-Kann and eventually took advantage of some serious king-side weaknesses. Kulashko was happy to swap into a drawn opposite coloured bishop ending after losing a pawn against Stuart. Smith gradually outplayed Jesse Wilson with black to record his first win. Green and Spain also made a move, with comfortable wins over Forster and Perry.

The leaders on Saturday night: Dive, Nokes, Croad 3, Ker, Hornsgaard, 2.5, Garbett, Smith, Lukey, Wastney, Green, Spain, McNabb, McCrone, Stuart, Krstev, Goodhue, Bennett, Donaldson, Sims 2.

Round Four

Dive's queenside play proved more potent than Croad's king-side gestures. Ker had a good win against Nokes, turning a seemingly tranquil position into a strong attack, where Ker's vicious black squared bishop and Nokes' ruptured king-side made resistance impossible. Smith played his best game of the tournament to beat Hornsgaard.

Crone managed a self-mate from a pawn up against Garbett. Sunday morning fatigue appeared to strike in Stuart's game against Wastney, when he fell for a simple tactic and lost the exchange. Spain beat Goodhue when the latter's king-side aggression resulted only in weakened pawns. Bennett felt the wrath of a struggling Kulashko, who demolished his opponent with a dazzling display of tactics.

Scores with one round to go: Dive 4, Ker 3.5, Nokes, Garbett, Smith, Lukey, Wastney, Croad, Spain 3, Kulashko, Green, Hornsgaard, McNabb, Krstev, Sims 2.5.

Round Five

Dive had white against Ker, with the $150 bonus for five straight wins – and place in history

- tantalisingly close. However, a loss would give Ker first place instead. In the event, a cautious approach by both players led to a blocked position and a 23 move draw. On board two Nokes-Lukey was the proverbial "game of two halves". Lukey outplayed Nokes and reached an easily winning ending a pawn up. Unfortunately he then fell for an obvious swindle and was even losing. However the game reached its "logical" conclusion when inaccuracies by Nokes allowed a draw.

Garbett reached four points and second place with a well-calculated finish after Wastney blundered a pawn.

Spain also reached four with a hard-fought win over Smith. The latter attempted to steer the game away from Spain's encyclopaedic opening knowledge, but only succeeded into getting into a bad position and losing a pawn.

Hornsgaard completed a pretty good tournament with another good game against Krstev. An interesting early combination resulted in an endgame win.

Conclusion

Dive's debut victory in the Waitakere Licensing Trust Open was convincing. The signs looked good from the moment Russell drew the white pawn in round one, and he never looked back. Five rounds of steady chess resulted in a comfortable clear first. The crunch game was in round three against Lukey, which could have gone any which way. But Dive successfully picked his way through the variations to score an important point.

For the second year in a row the trophy (and the $750 first prize) headed back to Wellington (Ker won last year).

Second place was shared by Ker, Garbett and Spain on 4/5. Ker was undefeated, his closest call being against Hornsgaard in round three. He played some quality chess. Garbett showed his fighting spirit by coming back from a Saturday night loss to Croad. Spain also recovered well after an upset loss in round one to Hair. For the next three rounds he stayed "below the radar", then took his chance well in the crucial last round game against Smith.

All three runners-up took home $370 each.

Fourth equal on 3.5 were Hornsgaard, Nokes, Lukey, Kulashko and Green.

The tournament ran smoothly with no real problems, under the able guidance of experienced Director of Play Bruce Pollard. Two cellphone fines were handed out for a first offence. The other potential problem – noisy juniors – did not prove a worry, as they were largely quiet in the tournament hall and limited most of their exuberance to the analysis room, where it could not be heard. Thanks as always to the sponsors, Waitakere Licensing Trust, whose continued support enables Waitemata to hold such a quality tournament each year.

The trust was represented at the end of play by Chairman Warren Flaunty, who addressed the players and presented the prizes, after which all players and officials enjoyed the complimentary food and drinks that are a feature of this tournament.

Warren was impressed by the turnout and the wide range of people involved, and the signs look good for an even bigger and brighter tournament next year. Watch this space!

B Tournament

Top seed for the 'B' Tournament was the country's highest rated female, fifteen-year-old Evgenia Charomova. Rated close behind her was Don Stracy, from Wellington, and Don Eade. However, the B grade is renowned for throwing up surprises, and so it proved again this year. Perhaps a look at the rapid ratings may have given a clue to the eventual winner. Chris Smith had a standard rating of only 1539 – but a rapid rating of 1950! In the event, he saw off all-comers with five straight wins, taking first prize of $350 plus a $75 bonus.

The tournament was also successful for another Smith. New Zealand Women's Champion Viv Smith went through undefeated – despite some dodgy positions – to share second place with her first round victim, Don Eade, and Richard Taylor, who was also undefeated. Also in the money was Genesis Potini, who finished fifth on 3.5. Top seed Charomova could muster only three points for a share of sixth place, while Stracy did even worse, bookending three losses with wins in the first and last rounds.

Final leading scores: C. Smith (5/5) 1,

V. Smith, D. Eade, R. Taylor (4) 2-4, G. Potini (3.5) 5, L. Goodkind, C. Riding, J. Huang, E. Charomova, J. Vosloo, Shirley Wu, J. Wu (3) 6-12 ... 30 players.

C Tournament

Ratings often mean little in the C tournament, which is usually packed with fast improving juniors.

Bruce Dellaca was the top seed at 1390, and he duly began with a loss to one of those juniors, the razor sharp eleven year-old Sharon Wu. To Bruce's credit he fought back well, scoring four straight wins.

But that was not enough to head off another junior, Mario Krstev, who scored four and a half to share first prize with Ben Kluge. Mario's only draw was in a fluctuating game against Devon Smith, while Ben drew with second seed Thomas Gothorp. The joint winners each took home $200. Joining Dellaca in third place on four points were two more juniors, Stephen Yang and Richard Dare, and Temu Maroroa.

Final top scores: B. Kluge, M. Krstev (4.5) 1-2, S. Yang, R. Dare, T. Maroroa, B. Dellaca (4) 3-6, T. Gothorp, D. Smith, E. Chen (3.5) 7-9 ... 46 players.

Junior Tournament

This was restricted to players aged under 14 and rated under 1400. Top seed with a rating of 1210 was Waitemata's Michael Harrison. But ratings mean even less in the Junior event. Harrison lost in the very first round to seven-year-old Li Xiangwei. Like Dellaca in the C grade, Harrison did fight back with four wins to share second place with Xiangwei. But the runaway winner – and the only person to beat Xiangwei – was Balomohan Shingade, who won all five games to finish a point clear of the field and earn $150. Fourth place went to seven-year-old Alan Ansell, from New Plymouth.

Final scores: B. Shingade (5/5) 1, M. Harrison, L. Xiangwei (4) 2-3, A. Ansell (3.5) 4, F. Bole, Y. Han, M. Wiperi, J. Zhou, H. Chen (3) 5-9 ... 19 players.

The countback used is the recommended FIDE system of Median Bucholtz, which eliminates the top and bottom opponents from the countback, supposedly to lessen the effect of anomalies.

Rating News 2005 Period 1

by Rowan Wood

It reads "1 (unc)" on all eight rating lists below, meaning that the top ranked player remains unchanged.

IM Ben Martin has retained his top ranking on the latest standard rating list but this time he is alone at the top. Current NZ Champion IM Anthony Ker is now joint second with IM Russell Dive who has climbed three places. Roger Nokes remains in fourth place while Alexei Kulashko drops two places to fifth. NZ Rapid Champion IM Dive retains the number one ranking on the rapid rating list. IM Ker climbs two positions to second, pushing IM Paul Garbett to third. IM Martin is unchanged in fourth with Kulashko rounding out the top five.

The following standard-rated tournaments have been processed: NZ Championship, NZ Major Open, Oceania Zonal, Wellington Easter, Auckland CC Summer, Waitemata CC Championships, Waitemata CC Under 400, Waitemata CC Summer, Upper Hutt CC Championships, Wellington CC Summer,

No change on the junior lists with Wang Pu Chen unchallenged at number one. Gino Thornton retains his second place on both lists.

It's a similar story for the women's rating lists where again the number one player, Evgenia Charomova, has retained her ranking on both lists. On the standard list, Sue Maroroa and Viv Smith swap positions. On the rapid list, Smith and Edith Otene retain their places behind Charomova. Richard Sutton is still number one on the senior lists ahead of Prince Vetharianam. Two new entries occupy third place, Ross McKerras and Bill Lynn on the standard and rapid lists respectively.

Correspondence Chess

by Gordon Hoskyn

Long-time chess administrator and player Ted Frost (Wanganui) has taken out the 2004-05 Correspondence Handicap

Tourney from a field of 30. Frost was in outstanding form. He was one of only three players to go through the tournament without incurring a loss and his score of 17 wins from 19 games was the third highest recorded.

The most games played was by Logan Cotton (New Plymouth), who completed 35.

The average length of the 225 games played was 28.5 moves.

Increasing the number of grades from three to five was a great success. Three different grades featured in the first three places, four grades in the first six places, and all five grades in the top 10 places. 23 players completed the minimum number of eight games necessary for an official finishing score.
